Dear NPSA Participants:

Welcome to the 2025 meeting of the Northeastern Political Science Association.

We are holding this meeting in Philadelphia, the site of the First and Second Continental Congresses, where leaders gathered to discuss independence from British rule. In 1776, the Declaration of Independence was signed at Independence Hall, marking the birth of the United States. The Liberty Bell, a symbol of freedom, is also housed in Philadelphia, further cementing the city's role in the fight for independence.

Many of the papers and roundtables will focus on events, trends, and crises that influence the modern world. Program Chair Ian Drake and the program committee have organized a conference with over 80 panels. It features traditional panels, roundtables, and professional development programs.

The NPSA will also have several speakers at the meeting. APSA President Susan Stokes from the University of Chicago will speak at our Thursday afternoon luncheon. Our Pi Sigma Alpha speaker will be Derek A. Webb from the Catholic University of America Law School.

For our 57th meeting, we are returning to Philadelphia for the first time since 2019. Located in the iconic Rittenhouse Square, the Warwick Rittenhouse Square Hotel has hosted distinguished guests since 1928. As the last of Philadelphia's original "Grand Dame hotels," Warwick remains a global destination for culture, business, and recreation. The hotel has hosted prominent guests, including Frank Sinatra, Ava Gardner (who spent her honeymoon at the hotel), Sammy Davis Jr., Bob Hope, and Sidney Poitier. In 1947, the Ben Franklin House drew attention for refusing to accommodate the Brooklyn Dodgers, who had stayed at the hotel for years, due to the inclusion of Jackie Robinson, the first African American player in Major League Baseball. The Warwick opened its doors to Robinson and the Brooklyn Dodgers, becoming their permanent accommodations.

Philadelphia boasts great cultural institutions, historical sites, and restaurants that make it one of the most exciting cities in the world. We hope you can spend some time outside the meeting.

Thank you for attending the 2025 meeting. We hope you enjoy the event.

Anti-Harassment Policy & Professional Code of Conduct

The NPSA prides itself on fostering a professional, inclusive, and amicable annual conference. Our meeting is convened for professional development, scholarship, and educational interchange in a spirit of academic freedom and free inquiry. Harassment and unprofessional behavior directed at colleagues, students, or other conference attendees at NPSA meetings are severe forms of professional misconduct.

This Anti-Harassment Policy and Professional Code of Conduct outlines expectations for all participants at NPSA annual meetings. These guidelines and procedures closely model those that govern the American Political Science Association and other regional political science association meetings. These guidelines remind us that our association and our annual meeting are governed by professional academic ethics and norms that apply as standards of behavior and interaction at our meetings.

Purpose

The NPSA is committed to providing a safe, inclusive, respectful, and welcoming conference environment for all participants, regardless of actual or perceived gender, gender identity, race, ethnicity, sexual orientation, ability, socioeconomic status, age, religion, or belief. “Participant” in this policy refers to anyone present at NPSA meetings, including staff, contractors, vendors, exhibitors, venue staff, NPSA members, and all other attendees.

Expected Behavior

All participants at NPSA annual meetings are expected to abide by this Anti-Harassment Policy and Professional Code of Conduct in all meeting venues, including official and unofficial social gatherings. All participants are expected to comply with:

- Abiding by the norms of professional respect that are required for free academic interchange.
- Being proactive in helping to mitigate or avoid harm in situations of potential harm to conference participants.
- Agreeing to alert relevant NPSA staff or security personnel if a situation arises in which an individual may be in imminent danger.

Unacceptable Behavior

Behaviors that violate the Anti-Harassment Policy and NPSA Code of Conduct include, but are not limited to:

- Sustained, unprofessional disruption of talks or other events.
- Threats or actions that cause or threaten personal harm.
- Threats or actions that cause or threaten professional harm, punishment, or retaliation.
- Intimidating, harassing, abusive, derogatory, or demeaning speech or action.
- Prejudicial actions or comments that coerce others, foment broad hostility, or otherwise undermine professional equity or the principles of free academic exchange.
- Prejudicial actions or comments related to gender, gender identity, race, ethnicity, sexual orientation, ability, socioeconomic status, age, or religion.
- Unwelcome solicitation of emotional or physical intimacy.

- Deliberate intimidation, stalking or following.
- Harassing photography or recording.
- Other intentionally disruptive behavior.

How to Submit a Grievance or Complaint to the NPSA

If harassment is observed, please report it to any NPSA staff member, Officer, or General Council Member. Suppose there is a question of immediate physical danger. In that case, action should be taken immediately to ensure the safety of all attendees and staff, regardless of any complaint procedure that needs to be followed.

Participants who believe that they have experienced or witnessed harassment or have been the target of unprofessional conduct in violation of NPSA's Anti-Harassment Policy and Professional Code of Conduct can submit a complaint to Ethics@northeasternpsa.com.

Individuals should be prepared to provide the NPSA with as much detail and documentation as possible (preferably in writing). The NPSA will treat reports as confidential to the extent feasible to allow the NPSA to assess the incident.

Upon receiving a complaint, the NPSA President and Executive Director will refer the complaint to an Ad Hoc Complaint Committee (recusing any individuals from the Complaint Committee with a prior relationship to any party involved).

The Complaint Committee will conduct an appropriate investigation, which may include interviewing all parties and any witnesses to the incident, as well as reviewing all relevant documentation. The Complaint Committee may consult legal counsel or refer matters to the appropriate authorities where criminal or civil remedies may be warranted. The Committee will write a brief preliminary report stating its findings, determination, and the factual basis of its decision. The Committee will provide the respondent and complainant with thirty days to respond to the preliminary report in writing before submitting to the NPSA Executive Board a final report and any recommended sanctions.

When an individual is found to have engaged in inappropriate conduct under this policy, possible sanctions may include:

- Issuing a warning to cease the discriminatory or harassing behavior and retaining a record of that warning in case of future violations.
- Terminating current NPSA conference participation and any NPSA responsibilities or appointments held.
- Barring the person from assuming any future governance positions within NPSA.
- Barring the person from participating in future NPSA conferences or events; and/or
- Revoking NPSA Membership.

The NPSA Executive Board will vote on the actions recommended by the Committee and will notify all parties of the relevant decisions.

Guidelines For Panel Participation

Time Allotments: Each panel session is scheduled for approximately one hour and thirty minutes or two hours, as specified in the program. During the session, each paper presentation should not exceed fifteen minutes. Discussants and author responses should total no more than fifteen minutes. A minimum of fifteen minutes should be reserved for audience participation.

Role of Chair: At the meeting, panel chairs should give a brief introduction of participants and a short overview of the panel, such as common themes. Chairs should facilitate the proceedings and acknowledge questions from the audience. The panel chair should be firm in limiting participants who talk excessively.

Paper Copy. If the panel chair does not receive a copy of the participant's paper by the set deadline, they should contact the author to request copies for all panel participants.

Replacements. Panel chairs should recruit replacements for discussants who withdraw from participation.

Communication. Please keep the section and program chairs informed of all panel changes as soon as possible, so that the printed program can be as accurate as possible.

Role of Discussants. Discussants should address the importance of any significant issues with the papers during the panel. Try to focus your remarks on no more than three or four key points for each paper. Stylistic feedback is helpful and generally appreciated by the authors, but it should be shared outside the panel through marginal notes or separate conversations. Additionally, discussants' comments should be polite and constructive, even when offering criticism.

Role of Authors. Paper authors are expected, as courteous and responsible professionals, to complete their papers and submit copies by the designated deadline to all panel members, including the panel chair, discussants, and other authors on the panel. Do Not Read the Paper. Paper authors should prepare complete, written papers; however, during the panel, they should only present their findings and significance, rather than reading the paper.

Bring Copies. Paper authors are encouraged to bring printed copies of their papers for distribution to the audience. Additionally, it would enhance the professionalism of the conference if each paper provided copies for the exhibition area for interested participants.

Awards. Panel chairs should forward papers to their section chair for consideration for one of the awards in either the faculty or graduate student categories.

Withdrawals. If a panelist must withdraw from participation, they should notify the panel chair and the program chair as soon as possible. There are usually others who proposed papers or wish to act as discussants but couldn't be included in the program due to the limited number and size of the panels. An existing non-participant could fill the vacancy. Unjustified no-shows could result in a ban from future conferences.

Pre-registration. All participants should pre-register by the deadline specified in the Call for Participation to ensure their names are included in the Final Program and to qualify for fee discounts.

Projection Technology at the Conference. Unfortunately, there will be no computer projection technology available at this conference. The cost of such technology is prohibitive, and it would lead to significant increases in our registration fees, which have been kept low to encourage participation. Plan on delivering your presentation the traditional way: without PowerPoint slides. However, you may instead distribute printed copies of your slides to the audience (about 10 or 15 copies). Sharing complete printed papers is also a good option.
